If you deal with rejection properly, you will learn that your identity and strength lies in Christ not in others. The acceptance of others is important, but it is secondary. The foundational revelation a person must receive is the unconditional love of God. By properly handling rejection, you will more likely live out your destiny.

Rejection and fear of rejection kept me in my own prison. I am anti social and stay away from others on purpose. I am a sex offender lepor who was rejected by those in the church. Ongoing rejection has caused me to become bitter and I have rejected myself and my birth identity.

(The church I joined was a Lutheran church in the Evangelical Lutheran Church of America (ELCA) synod-definitely not a cult church.) My friends' rejection made me feel like I had to defend my faith, convince my friends that I was still a Christian, that I had not rejected God, the Bible, Jesus, or the Holy Spirit-only the churches and denominations in which I grew up.

A concluding comment. In 1985, Don Baker published a book, Beyond Rejection, which chronicled the story of Jerry, who struggled with homosexuality from his childhood, through seminary and into marriage. Over 25 years later, it still provides a needed window into the extreme difficulties of this struggle and yet the hope provided by Jesus Christ.
